Brighten Winter Days

When the chill creeps in and you turn homeward, there's a simple, tangible way to stay connected: Send letters.

You'll give friends a lift with the stamps in this booklet — flowers that never wilt and hearts that spread love on Valentine's Day and after. Because you don't really need a reason to tell someone you love them.

Warmly,

Cindy L. Tackett

Hearts Aflutter

Make hearts leap with stamps that hint at certain sentiments inside.

Want to surprise your sweetie with a special postmark that really says "Valentine's Day"? Send your card by way of Valentine, Texas, or Loveland, Colorado, where postal workers will hand-cancel it using a love-related design before mailing it on its way. Here's what to do:

→ Stamp and address the valentine as if you were sending it straight to the recipient.

→ Place the stamped valentine(s) inside a larger stamped envelope, addressed to your destination:

Postmaster – Valentine Re-Mailing
Valentine, TX 79854

Postmaster – Valentine Re-Mailing
446 E. 29th St.
Loveland, CO 80538-9998

→ Have your valentine arrive to the Postmaster by February 7, and it should arrive in your loved one's mailbox (if within the U.S.) by February 14. Allow more time for foreign mail.
